In case the Company in good faith has reason to believe that a Client (whether individually or as part of a group) has participated in Abusive Behaviour as defined below, then the Company is entitled at its sole discretion, to:

- cancel any profits, as well as any Introducing Broker's fees, generated from Abusive Behaviour,
- to offset any resulting losses against related/hedged winning accounts,
- to terminate that Client's access to services provided by the Company and/or terminate the contract between the Company and the Client for the provision of services,
- to block Client's Account(s) (save where required otherwise by relevant authority) and to arrange for the transfer of any unused balance (less any bonus (if applicable)) to the Client. For the avoidance of doubt, Abusive Behaviour includes the following:

- Giving instructions on behalf of a client without due or proper authority;
- Repeatedly failing to respond to an email for 15 days or more;
- Client, by himself or acting with others (including an Introducing Broker), constructing a trading position or positions which have the purpose to generate profits without exposure to economic risk, including without limitation loss of the Client's capital (or the capital of others);
- Client, by himself or acting with others, having an account or accounts where the Client hedging his positions including, without limitation, by holding open position(s) on the opposite of a trade, including, by way of illustration only, through use of a single or correlated currency, at given periods, internally (using other trading accounts held with the Company) or externally (using other trading accounts held with other brokers).
